Andrea Jensen, certified radiology nurse

C.S. "Sig" & Helenmarie Leonardson

Investing in excellence

In 2011, siblings Linnea Bremner, Laurel Seaman, and Larry Leonardson established the Leonardson Family Endowment for Nursing Excellence at Providence St. Peter Foundation. The endowment, named in honor of their parents, Helenmarie and C.S. "Sig" Leonardson, has already begun to bear fruit in the community.

Andrea Jensen was among the first to receive an award from the fund. Andrea is an experienced, well-respected caregiver, having a 13-year track record as a registered nurse at St. Peter Hospital, but she aspired to expand her knowledge and expertise further.

She applied for a Leonardson Family Award to seek state certification as a certified radiology nurse (CRN).

"The test was very challenging," Andrea says. "The book I bought to prepare was 1,000 pages long, and I read it twice. The test covers aspects of interventional radiology including angiography, CT, nuclear medicine and ultrasound. Even with four years of experience as a radiology nurse, and with all my preparation, it was not easy.”

Andrea passed, and now puts what she learned to good use both with patients and with her fellow nurses. She has presented 30 in-service trainings for her colleagues and works with educators at local nursing homes to help train their nursing staff in the management of feeding tubes and abscess drains, as well as chest tubes. She says the “teaching part” of her work is incredibly rewarding.

“Being educated makes you a better nurse,” Andrea says. “I believe all nurses want to be experts in the care they provide. Learning and studying current, evidence-based approaches to the procedures we do means we can offer the best care to the patients who rely on us.”

As St. Peter Hospital prepared for Magnet recertification, Andrea served as the Radiology Magnet Champion — a nurse leader trained in Magnet recognition goals and objectives.

“Knowledge is power,” Andrea says. “I have learned so much in my current role as a radiology nurse, and I love to share that knowledge with all of the amazing nurses throughout the hospital and community.”

As part of the Magnet® redesignation, three St. Peter Hospital programs were called out as areas of exemplar practice:

The Sexual Assault Clinic, the No One Dies Alone (NODA) program, and the hospital’s transformational work on the continuum of care with geriatric centers within the community.

ANCC Magnet® recognition acknowledges nursing excellence at St. Peter Hospital

Providence St. Peter Hospital was honored to learn that, once again, it has received Magnet® recognition as a part of the American Nurses Credentialing Center’s Magnet Recognition Program®. The program recognizes health care organizations for creating an environment that attracts and retains well-qualified nurses who deliver care in innovative ways to produce excellent patient outcomes.

As part of the Magnet community, Providence St. Peter retains its place among the best of the best — being one of just three hospitals in Washington, and one of 375 health care organizations of nearly 6,000 in the nation, to earn the honor. The hospital’s original Magnet designation was awarded in 2010; this redesignation is valid for another four years.

“We are dedicated to sustaining a nursing culture that encourages engagement, learning and adoption of evidence-based practices,” says Providence Southwest Washington Region Chief Nursing Officer and Vice President of Operations Michelle James. “The Magnet program, and we at St. Peter Hospital, place an emphasis on professional development and higher education. We believe it helps nurses develop critical thinking and openness to new ideas and new models of care, which ultimately translates into the best possible health care for our patients and community.”

North Thurston school kids get ready to move!

You see it in the news, and you see it in the community: Young people today move less than they have in the past, with serious consequences for individual kids and society as a whole. Youth obesity is a precursor for many serious health problems later in life.

A Providence pilot project funded by Premera Blue Cross is working to combat this trend.

Three classes of sixth graders in Chinook Middle School are wearing an accelerometer device called a Sqord Booster. Kids wear the Sqord like a watch and use it to measure, track and—hopefully—increase physical activity levels. The device measures any kind of movement, and students have access to a website where they can sync their gadgets, log their progress, view earned points and interact with other participants.

The pilot was introduced in three classrooms in Chinook Middle School, but program leaders have a goal to expand it across the North Thurston School District—and perhaps further—starting in the fall.

Demitra Marker, 6th grade health and PE teacher at Chinook Middle School, facilitates the Sqord program for her students.

“Students at this age tend to plateau on their physical activities,” Demitra says. “The Sqord project has really made a difference. I’ve seen a huge increase in students running and being active, especially those that are not normally as active. The kids are excited, constantly asking me to sync their Sqord to see how many points they have, or seeing me before school to say they synced their device and they’re in first place. It’s amazing!”

2015 Mission Leadership Award

Every year, the Providence Health & Services Board of Directors recognizes a program from across the five-state area of Alaska, California, Montana, Oregon, and Washington, that demonstrates “extraordinary, community-focused services that exemplify the mission.”

We’re delighted to announce that the Providence St. Peter Animal-Assisted Activities & Therapy (PAAA/T) program will share this year’s Mission Leadership Award with Providence Alaska Medical Center’s animal-assisted program!

Congratulations to the past and current PAAA/T human-animal teams, and thank you to the donors who have made more than 120,000 visits possible to St. Peter Hospital patients, staff and visitors since the program’s start in 1989!

2015 Christmas Forest set for Dec. 1-6

Christmas Forest is one of Southwest Washington's most honored traditions. This five-day holiday fundraiser offers a chance for the community to enjoy a festive display of Christmas trees and wreaths, created by Thurston County's most talented designers.

Attend one of the special events to help get yourself into the holiday spirit, or drop by the Christmas Forest Gift Shop to stock up on unique and special holiday gifts and décor.

Leading the way

Kevin and Tammi Schreiner are this year's Christmas Forest co-chairs. Kevin, who has served on the Providence St. Peter Foundation Board of Directors since 2010, says he is very pleased to be able to participate in the event in such a central role this year.

"Tammi and I are honored and excited to be chairing this wonderful, local tradition," Kevin says. "We are proud to help raise funds to ensure that the poor and vulnerable in our communities have access to the best care. As a cancer survivor myself, I know it's important to have access to high-quality care, whether it's during a health crisis or for long-term well-being."

Want to get involved? We need:

- Sponsors. This event relies on generous businesses and individuals to sponsor the trees, wreaths, and specialty items that make Christmas Forest possible.
- Designers. Our region's most creative individuals and design teams contribute their talent to create the trees and wreaths that make the event magical.
- Auction items and packages. Volunteers help our event team secure the great auction items and packages that raise vital funds.
- Skilled maintenance people. Volunteers who are good with power tools help make set-up and tear-down days go smoothly.

If you're interested in volunteering, please contact Stacey Genzlinger, Special Events Manager, at Stacey.Genzlinger@providence.org or (360) 493-7985.

Having fun and doing good

Last year's Christmas Forest raised $659,000, including $268,000 to ensure that palliative care will be available to outpatients by summer 2015. Over the past 27 years, Christmas Forest has raised funds to support life-saving medical equipment, compassionate care, and mission-driven programs. Christmas Forest is Providence St. Peter Foundation's largest fund-raising event, generating more than $9.2 million throughout its history.

Creating a legacy

Olympia resident Bertha Stoerchli passed away last year at the age of 89, leaving a generous gift to support the mission of Providence. Mrs. Stoerchli was a member of St. Michael's Catholic Church. She loved to play the organ, and traveled the world with her husband, George. Nancy Riordan, former Providence St. Peter Foundation executive director, says, "Bertha had a very kind and generous spirit. She wanted to make this world a better place and help people in need."

Thank you to Mrs. Stoerchli, and all our Legacy Club members who have made a provision through an estate plan or other planned gift. Your legacy lives on in the compassionate care provided to our patients each and every day.

Spring clean your affairs

Spring is in the air, and along with your cleaning, it's also a good time to take an inventory, including reviewing your retirement and estate plans.

Being ready for a financially secure retirement takes planning that begins early and never really ends. Children grow up. Incomes rise or fall. The time left between work and retirement narrows.

Just beginning to plan? Or anticipating retirement just around the corner? We have resources available to help no matter what your age.

Learn more at www.providence.org/giving under Create a Legacy of Giving. If you are considering including a gift to Providence in your will, please contact Peter Brennan at (360) 493-7981 or Peter.Brennan@providence.org.

Purchase a brick or paver by July 17!

Providence Way is a unique space in a peaceful and relaxing setting where patients, families, friends and staff can seek respite. Your gifts to Providence Way are designated to the Greatest Need Fund, which enables the Foundation to support many needs within the local Providence ministries. Bricks and pavers can be inscribed to remember a cherished loved one, celebrate a birth or anniversary, honor a friend, or say "thank you" for compassionate care.

To purchase a brick or paver, please call (360) 493-7981 or visit www.providence.org/giving.

Board President

A message from the President

Foundation, one such pilot program will help individuals and families make decisions in advance about the care they want to receive near the end of their life. Known as “advance care planning,” this exciting three-year project will begin by the fall of 2015.

In addition, we are helping to fund a program designed to keep children moving and active. There is more information about this “getting fit” program on page 2.

We are also very excited about the opening of the Palliative Care Outpatient Clinic this summer. This clinic was made possible thanks to many donors, especially supporters of the 2014 Christmas Forest Gala.

From keeping our children healthy, to planning for the end-of-life and advancing hospice, we are anticipating big, new initiatives. Thank you for investing in this work, and for making excellent health care accessible to all. Together, we are making a strong impact in the health and wellbeing of our neighbors and ourselves.

Sincerely,

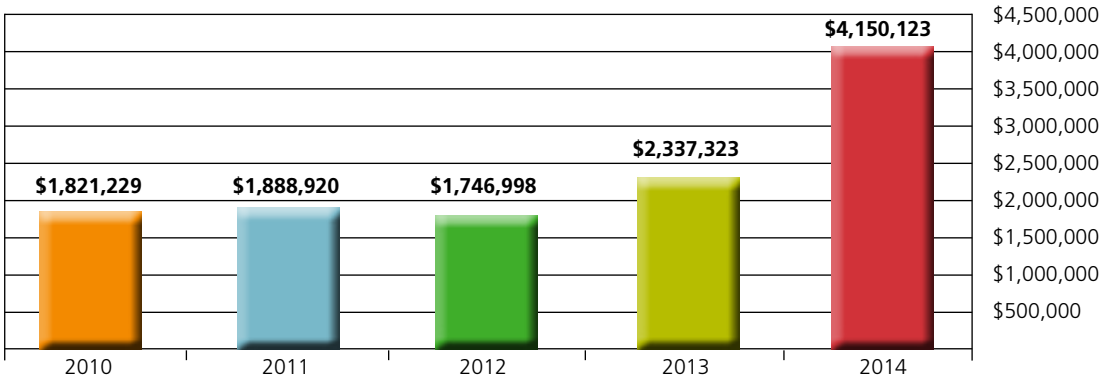

Patricia Gilmer, M.D.
Board President

In 2014, the Providence St. Peter Foundation Board of Directors focused on several new programs that begin to address some of the unique needs of our community.

A heartfelt “Thank You” to all the eleventh floor for the kind and generous treatment I received during my recent stay. I was going to only mention the very best of you – but as it turns out, everyone is exceptional!

Thank you, Teresa

Our family was very blessed to be in your case at the end of Sharon’s life. Everyone was so caring of both Sharon and all of our family members during such a sad and yet peaceful time. We will always remember everyone’s kindness.

John and family
